PRICE THREE CENTS

NEED $371 TO TRIM STREETS FOR CHRISTMAS

Elaborate and Beautiful Decorations Planned for Holiday Season.

DONATIONS TO CLOSE OCT. 14

Gettysburg is assured of the most extensive and beautiful street decorations for the Christmas season that this town has ever had, but approximately $371 more is needed to reach the goal set by the committee, it was announced by C. A. Bixler, chairman of the Christmas street decorating committee, after a meeting of his committee Tuesday night.

A total of $629 has been collected and pledged by local business men and residents, with only two lodges included in the list of contributors. The estimated cost of the street decorating system for the holiday season is slightly more than $900. This amount does not include laurel streamers customarily used here.

The committee contracted for street decorations covering the amount of money thus far received and pledged, declining to contract for more work than the actual amount of money on hand.

Residents Asked To Give

The complete street decorating scheme will require approximately $371 more and the committee issued an appeal to all citizens of the community for a donation, regardless of the amount, in order to carry through the plans as adopted.

Those who have not been approached for a donation are urged to send in their contributions to C. A. Bixler, at the telephone company business office, or give it to any member of the committee which comprises:

C. Ray Rupp, Francis Yost, Radford H. Lippy, Mose Bair, James B. Aumen, M. B. Frazee, Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith, Irving Mirisch, Joseph E. Codori and D. C. Stallsmith.

No Debt Incurred

All contributions must be turned into the committee before Monday, October 14. At that time the committee will conclude its plans and place contracts for the work for which they will have the money to pay. The committee will not go into debt and everything purchased and erected will be paid for before the street decorating lights are turned on.

The entire system will be erected by November 30.

All materials used in the street decorating scheme will be permanent fixtures and will be available every year, it was announced by the committee chairman. After the holiday season the decorations will be taken down and securely and safely packed for future use.

The committee is confident that Gettysburgians will respond to their appeal for an additional $371 to complete the decorating system.

The proposed decorations include strands of colored lights across the main streets of town, special decorations on each standard and laurel.

EDUCATORS AT STATE MEETING

Professors Keefeauver, Slaybaugh and Baker Go To Harrisburg Sessions.

Prof. J. Floyd Slaybaugh, Adams county superintendent of schools; his assistant, Prof. Ira Y. Baker and Prof. Lloyd C. Keefeauver, superintendent of the Gettysburg public schools, went to Harrisburg this afternoon to attend the annual two-day state education congress.

The Congress closes at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening, with a testimonial banquet in honor of Dr. Lester K. Ade, state superintendent of public instruction.

Professors Slaybaugh and Keefeauver are members of the committee arranging the testimonial dinner.

Gov. George H. Earle will be the principal speaker at the dinner. Besides Professors Slaybaugh, Baker and Keefeauver, Professor Guile W. Lefever, principal of the high school; Professors Roy Starry, York Springs; Elmore H. Slaybaugh, Fairfield; C. I. Raffensperger and Elmer Gruver, East Berlin, will attend the dinner.

Special Wednesday night, Italian spaghetti with meat balls. Served from 7 p. m. to 2 a. m. Haines roadstand.

Woman Admits Poison Deaths

District Attorney Littleton, of Nassau county, New York, said he had obtained a confession from Mrs. John Creighton (shown below with her husband), 36-year-old housewife, that she aided in fatally poisoning the wife of Everett Applegate, Mineola legionnaire. Mrs. Creighton, who according to Littleton also admitted poisoning her brother 12 years ago, allegedly said she aided in killing Mrs. Applegate because she thought Applegate should marry her daughter. Austria and Hungary Break With League; Differ Over Sanctions

Geneva, Oct. 9 (AP).—The League of Nations alignment favoring the punishment of Italy for invading Ethiopia was broken today by Austria and Hungary.

Baron Pflugl, of Austria, said that his nation does not accept the report of the league council under which sanctions would be imposed against Italy.

The delegate from Hungary announced that his country was not in a position to endorse the conclusions of the council which decided that Italy disregarded its covenant under the League.

These two announcements were made in a meeting of the League assembly which was called to decide on what action might be taken against Italy for the war in east Africa.

The delegate from Hungary announced that his country was not in a position to endorse the conclusions of the council which decided that Italy disregarded its covenant under the League.

The Ethiopian charge d'affaires in Rome likewise was ready to leave on the first boat.

The Roman legions in northern Ethiopia occupied 3,600 square miles. They controlled Addis Ababa although reports said Ethiopians were making a counter attack on this city of 3,000.

The Italian forces reported officially to Rome that it was a "quiet day" along the northern front. But these same reports told of the "most bloody" fighting Tuesday in the capture of Edagahamus, southeast of Addis Ababa, other principal town in this area captured by the Italians in

PAST GRANDS HEAR TALK BY DR. WALTEMYER

College Professor Delivers Inspiring Address at Odd Fellows' Meeting.

GIVES GUIDE TO DO RIGHT

The October meeting of the Past Grands' association of the Order of Odd Fellows, held in the local lodge rooms Tuesday evening, is said to have been the most outstanding gathering of that body held in recent years.

The high point of the meeting was the address given by the Rev. Dr. W. C. Waltemyer, professor of English Bible at Gettysburg college.

In introducing Doctor Waltemyer, M. W. Stansbury presented the speaker not as a member of the fraternity, but as a "neighbor," which point is stressed in the ritualistic work.

After citing the average man as being endowed with the three cardinal virtues as inculcated by the teachings of the order, namely: friendship as the normal man; love as the neighborly man, and truth as the godly man, Doctor Waltemyer took up the main theme of his address, his subject being: "The Challenge of Our Critical Age."

Guide for Living
Citing many instances of men of selfish purpose and their failure in life, the speaker turned to the unselfish side, giving sound, practical advice for guidance "in the living of lives that will count for good," stressing the spiritual.

The meeting, the fifty-eighth of the association, was attended by 73 persons. Bruce Naugle, York Springs, president, presided at the business session. The opening prayer and address of welcome were given by the Rev. E. L. Eslinger, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church. The response was given by Frank M. Moore, of Fairfield.

The next meeting will be held with Sylvania lodge, 613, Littlestown, November 11.

COLLEGE GRAD IN STATE POST

Dr. Samuel Fausold Is Named First Deputy Superintendent of Instruction.

Dr. Samuel Fausold, superintendent of the Monessen schools, Westmoreland county, and graduate of Gettysburg college, was appointed first deputy superintendent of public instruction by Dr. Lester K. Ade, state superintendent of public instruction, Tuesday.

Doctor Fausold, who will receive $7500 a year, will not be assigned to a bureau as the other deputies are, Doctor Ade said.

"Doctor Fausold's service as a public school administrator is well known in Pennsylvania. He will bring to the department a background of accomplishment that will be most valuable as we prepare for new and increasing demands on public school service throughout the state," Doctor Ade said.

G-Burg Graduate
The new chief deputy attended rural schools in Westmoreland county and was graduated from Latrobe high school in 1906 and from Gettysburg college, where he won Phi Beta Kappa honors, in 1910. In 1925 he obtained his master's degree from the University of Pittsburgh. The same institution gave him his doctor of philosophy degree last year. He specialized in educational administration.

From 1910 to 1914 Doctor Fausold was principal of the East Huntingdon township schools, Westmoreland county. For the next eight years he was supervising principal of Irwin schools and principal of Norwin high school. From 1922 to 1930, when he became superintendent at Monessen, he was superintendent of the state.

Beattie Secretary
The Rev. W. M. Beattie, Williamsport, Maryland, a former pastor of the Gettysburg church, was re-elected secretary.

Medical Examiner
Dr. H. E. Gettler, of Littlestown, has been appointed medical examiner for the schools in Littlestown, Germany township and Union township, succeeding Dr. H. S. Crouse, of Littlestown.

GROWERS MEET THURSDAY
"Handling, Holding and Selling the Apple Crop" is the subject for discussion at the October meeting of the Adams county fruit growers' association at the Biglerville auditorium, Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Will pay good price for corn fodder, tied in small bundles for quick delivery. C. H. Musselman Company.

60 REPORT FOR BIBLE SCHOOL

Sixty youngsters reported for the opening assembly of the week day Bible school at the Presbyterian church, Tuesday afternoon, the largest crowd to turn out for the opening assembly since the school was inaugurated. Rev. Frederick B. Crane, pastor of the church, announced today.

Miss Helen Cope is principal of the school and the staff of instructors and teachers will be announced later, Rev. Mr. Crane said.

"The response Tuesday was most gratifying," the minister said. "It is larger than our entire class of last year and we are confident that the school this year will be the most successful as well as the largest we have ever had."

Regular classes will start next Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock and continue until five o'clock. One session will be held each week for six months.

FULL PROGRAM OF EDUCATION NEEDED TODAY

Instructors Should Not Be Like Scissors Grinder, Hanson Says.

NEED MEN WHO ARE DEPENDABLE

"If we are interested in the food our children eat; the water they drink; the air they breathe and the clothes they wear it is unreasonable to think we should not be even more vitally concerned with the kind of education our children are receiving," declared Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, in an address in York, Tuesday.

"The old scissors grinder, who belongs to an age that is gone, was not concerned with the use made of the scissors he had sharpened. They might be used to make a shroud or a bridal gown. The knife to which he gave so keen an edge might serve in the home or be wielded by the assassin's hand. It was the business of the scissors grinder to put an edge on the instruments used for cutting. Having served this mission, he felt all of the self-pride belonging to one who has in his own opinion creditably rendered a service expected."

"Into the field of education there has at times crept a sentiment not dissimilar.

Sharpen Student's Talents
"Even more generally than one likes to believe, there is cherished the opinion that the great purpose of an instructor is to sharpen the talent of the student. He is not concerned with the great central purpose running through the life of the student, nor with the use which may eventually be made of the (Continued on Page Two)

Firemen To Hold Quarterly Meeting

Organization of a Williamsport marching club will feature the October meeting of the Gettysburg fire company at the fire engine house East Middle street, this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The marching club will be a special unit of the Gettysburg fire company in the parade at next year's convention of the Pennsylvania state firemen's association which meets at Williamsport.

Improvements Ordered at Arendtsville Vocational School; 83 Are Enrolled

The executive committee of the Arendtsville joint school district met at the Arendtsville vocational school, Monday evening, and authorized the following general improvements for the school:

Painting and patching of the plaster throughout the school wherever necessary; purchase of all machine and tools necessary to meet the minimum requirements for shop as recommended by the state department of public instruction; purchase of a refrigerator and gas stove; installation of ventilators and window-sash weights; purchase of ten reference books; purchase of material to repair library books and to install the Dewey decimal system; purchase of a mimeograph and purchase of a mimeograph and typewriter with a long carriage.

In his monthly report to the executive committee, H. S. Bolan, principal of the school, also urged bells for the clock system, the display of the American flag, the repair of broken glass, the repair of the toilet in the boys' room, the replacement of broken valves on radiators, the covering of exposed electric light wires in the boys' dressing room and the replacement of broken exit lights in the auditorium.

The principal reported a total enrollment of 83 pupils this year. By towns and townships, Arendtsville has 14 pupils; Butler, 12; Cumberland, 2; Franklin, 19; Highland, 3; Huntingdon, 2; Latimore, 1; Menallen, 25; Mt. Joy, 2; Reading, 2, and Straban 1.

The principal also suggested that the board give consideration to the feasibility of adding a commercial course to the school's curriculum. Mr. Bolan said he had 46 requests for such a course.

Members of the executive committee at the meeting were Luther Lacy, representing Butler township; P. S. Orner, Arendtsville; H. S. Stoner, Franklin township, and Roy Raffensperger, secretary.

LEAGUE MEET AT COLLEGE IS SET FOR NOV. 7

Local Chapter Will Raise $1,000 to Refurnish Drawing Room for Co-eds.

NEW MEMBERS ARE PRESENTED

The Gettysburg branch of the General Woman's league of Gettysburg opened the year's work with a meeting Tuesday afternoon in Christ Lutheran church. There was a large attendance, and a number of new names were presented for membership.

Mrs. W. C. Waltemyer, the president, presided during the afternoon. Plans for the year's work were discussed and arrangements made for the annual convention of the General league which will be held in Gettysburg on November 7 and 8.

To Represent Chapter

Mrs. Waltemyer was selected to represent the Gettysburg branch at the convention with Mrs. Gilbert Reen, the alternate delegate. Six pages were appointed to serve during the convention. They are Miss Anna Cairns, Mrs. Donald Heiges, Mrs. Dunning Idle, Mrs. Lester Johnson, Mrs. W. A. Laning and Mrs. Bertram H. Salter. It was decided that the banquet in connection with the convention will be held in the dining room of the girls' dormitory. The convention program will be in charge of the Philadelphia branch of the league.

The local chapter decided to raise $1,000 during the next two years, the money to be used toward furnishing the drawing room of the girls' dormitory and in renovating Stevens hall. The chapter was divided into ten circles for money-raising purposes. The following women will act as leaders of the circles: Mrs. S. W. Augst, Mrs. J. I. Burgoon, Mrs. Karl J. Grimm, Mrs. W. A. Laning, Mrs. George R. Larkin, Mrs. Kenderton S. Lynch, Mrs. Francis C. Mason, Mrs. R. S. Baby, Mrs. C. B. Stover and Mrs. W. E. Tilber.

Varied Program

The afternoon's program, which was opened with a devotional period in charge of Mrs. Waltemyer and Mrs. Dwight F. Putman, included a group of piano solos by Miss Marian Miller, vocal solos by Miss Anna Grimm, who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Elizabeth Swope, with Mrs. Gilbert Reen playing the accompaniments, and a reading by Miss Helen Sellers.

Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, as the campus mother, gave a talk on "The Romance of Gettysburg College."

A social hour brought the meeting to a close. The hostesses included the following members of the executive committee: Mrs. W. C. Waltemyer, Mrs. Thomas L. Cline, Mrs. H. M. Hartman, Mrs. Robert P. Marsh, Mrs. George R. Larkin, Mrs. J. H. Meyer, Mrs. Dwight F. Putman, Mrs. Charles F. Sanders, Mrs. E. F. Strausbaugh and Mrs. J. Donald Swope.

Fall flowers and foliage in autumnal colors were used as decorations in the rooms of the church and tall yellow candles were used on the tea tables. Mrs. H. M. Hartman and Mrs. Charles F. Sanders presided at the tables.

Milton C. Plank Married Sept. 28

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Plank, Baltimore street, today announced the marriage of their son, Milton C. Plank to Mary K. Le Compte, of Cambridge, Maryland, at Harrisonburg, Virginia, Saturday, September 28. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Garrison.

Mr. Plank is a graduate of Gettysburg high school and Gettysburg college, class of 1930. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. At the present time he is engaged in the plumbing and heating business with his father.

The couple is residing in the Plank apartments, Baltimore street.

Hauptmann Loses Plea For Retrial

Trenton, Oct. 9 (AP).—The highest court in New Jersey, the court of errors and appeals, today upheld the death sentence conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnapping-murder of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

The opinion was unanimous. The decision came unexpectedly. The court, commenting upon the defense contention that Attorney General David T. Wilentz offered varying theories as to how the child died, said that was not harmful to the defendant.

The court held that the claim that Hauptmann's constitutional rights were violated was without merit.

Where Blow Was Struck

Ruling on the defense contention that the case should have been tried in Mercer county where the body was found instead of in Hunterdon county, site of the Lindbergh home, the court said there was evidence to show the fatal blow was inflicted in Hunterdon.

The court also held that "a charge basing guilt of murder in the first degree on elements including those of common law burglary in the course of which the homicide was committed" was not erroneous, though it referred to a statute which also included the elements of common law burglary, "without mentioning that crime in the text thereof."

The court also defended Justice Trenchard's charge to the jury.

The admission of the kidnap ladder as evidence, was proper, the opinion said. "The verdict was not against the weight of evidence," it went on. Nor could it find any legal error in Colonel Lindbergh's daily presence in the court, nor the presence of other "prominent persons not connected with the case."

The frequent demonstrations in the court, the laughter, whispers and chuckles had no effect on the verdict since Justice Trenchard properly rebuked those responsible.

Not Aware of Decision

New York, Oct. 9 (A).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off in his plane today from North Beach airport, Queens, apparently without having learned of the decision of the New Jersey court upholding the death sentence of Bruno Hauptmann. He left shortly after 11 a. m. and headed south for an unannounced destination.

SUNDAY FILMS ARE ATTACKED

Presbyterian Sunday School Officials Endorse Ministerium's Action.

Opposition to Sunday movies and approval of the Gettysburg Ministerium's recent pronouncement against the commercialization of the Sabbath by the showing of motion pictures in Gettysburg on Sunday were expressed in a resolution adopted at the October meeting of the officers and teachers of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Sunday school Tuesday evening. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. M. B. Frazee, Baltimore street. John H. Knickerbocker, superintendent, presided.

The resignation of Miss Nancy Keith as superintendent of the Junior-Intermediate department of the Sunday school, effective November 1, was accepted with regret. Her successor was not selected. Miss Keith will serve as a teacher in the intermediate department.

Reports of committees and officers were received. General school problems were discussed, including a suggestion that classes of young men and women of high school and colleges ages be combined in two mixed classes.

The following were named as substitute teachers: Miss Emily Wible, Mrs. Paul Ketterman, Mrs. P. J. McGlynn and Miss Jean Belford. Following the business session refreshments were served.

TWO PROJECTS IN COUNTY TO RE-EMPLOY 23

Improvement of Road Between East Cavalry and Gregg Avenues Announced.

155 EMPLOYED ON 6 PROJECTS

Two new projects are scheduled to be launched in Adams county this week, according to announcement today at the local office of the works progress administration.

One of the projects is the improvement of a road between East Cavalry and Gregg avenues in Mt. Pleasant township. This project to which 22 men have been assigned for two months, calls for the expenditure of $2,022 in federal funds and $875 in local contributions. The other project, listed to begin this week, but not expected to get under way until next week, is the position of secretarial and clerical assistant to the medical chairman, Dr. R. W. Gifford, in an emergency child health program.

12-Month Program

This is a continuation of a project begun last year, with Miss Alice Williams filling the position. The federal grant for this 12-month program is $756, with $473.04 in local contributions.

Six projects, furnishing employment for 155 men, were begun in Gettysburg and Adams county last week. The total of the federal grants for the projects is $28,022, with $2,354.89 as local contributions. The projects started last week follow:

Gettysburg: Grading and surfacing West High street. Federal funds, $2,588; local contribution, $668.20. Twenty-eight men, two months.

Franklin and Menallen townships: Forest cleanup. Federal funds, $7,500; local contributions, $99. Thirty-two men, five months.

Huntington township: Improvements to eight school buildings. Federal funds, $3,122; local contribution, $919.14. Twenty men, three months.

Other Projects
Littlestown: Improving high school grounds. Federal funds, $5,201; local contribution, $476.25. Twenty-eight men, four months.

Franklin and Huntingdon townships: Forest roadside cleanup. Federal funds, $7,500; local contributions, $100. Thirty-two men, five months.

Freedom township: Improvements to McIlhenny's school grounds and building. Federal funds, $2,111; local contributions, $92.30. Fifteen men, three months.

Projects previously started are furnishing employment for 121 additional men.

Cars Collide on Carlisle Street

Chicken Thieves Are Sentenced

Harry Stauffer, York; John Needham, near Gettysburg, and Edward R. Wunch, York, entered pleas of guilty to charges of felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods in York county court Tuesday. They admitted that they stole 33 chickens from the farm of Franklin Menges, former congressman.

Stauffer has a previous record for thefts and one time escaped from the York county jail. He was sent to the Eastern penitentiary for not less than one and one-half years or more than three years.

Needham was sent to jail for six months and ordered to pay a fine of $25 and costs.

Wunch was sentenced to spend four months in jail and pay a fine of $25 and costs. Wunch had no part in the actual theft, but was employed by Stauffer and Needham to transport the chickens, which he knew were stolen, to a Hanover produce dealer.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rassbach, of Philadelphia, announce the birth of a daughter Tuesday night. This is their second child. Mrs. Rassbach will be remembered as being the former Miss Evelyn Toot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Toot, Baltimore street.

WINS FAME ON ODD INSURANCE

Freak Insurance Policies on World's Celebrities Bring Letterman Success.

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Elmer Letterman, the young millionaire who left Virginia 15 years ago to become the world's foremost insurance salesman, knows more celebrities by their first names than any other American business man.

Letterman is the man who started the fad for freak insurance policies a few years ago. He got the idea while watching Harpo Marx strum the harp on a movie set in Hollywood. After the scenes were completed, he convinced Harpo that he should insure his hands for a half million dollars. This done, he proceeded to insure Adolphe Menjou for his moustache, Charlie Chaplin for his feet, Mary Pickford for her curls and Marion Davies for her teeth.

Movie stars are ready meat for Letterman. He met Douglas Fairbanks at Charlie Chaplin's home in California, raced him across the swimming pool, lost by four lengths and said goodbye to a $250,000 policy in his pocket. Clara Bow, a guest at one of his parties, lived up to the evening by diving into his fountain with disastrous effects to the expensive pool. Miss Bow apologized the next day by taking out a $200,000 annuity.

Each time Al Jolson begins a picture, Warner Brothers insures him for one million dollars through Letterman. The largest policy for one individual ever issued was that sold by Letterman to Joseph Schenck for five million dollars. Rudolph Valentino, one of his close friends, owned only $200,000 worth of insurance. Letterman urged him to take out a million, and the movie star promised to think it over. But he took too long. Ten days later he was dead.

Elmer Letterman seldom goes to baseball games, but he saw the New York Giants play a few years ago as the guest of Jimmy Walker. After the game he insured John J. McGraw's life with a group policy by which every member of the team benefited not so many years later. Jack Dempsey has a large bundle of Letterman's papers, and other ringmasters who have signed up with him include Champions Barney Ross and Tony Canzoneri and ex-Champs Max Baer, Benny Leonard and Jim London.

Many musicians are excellent insurance clients, Letterman says. Recently Margaret Livingstone made Paul Whiteman take out a $200,000 annuity. Since then most of his band members have also been insured by Letterman. Millionaire maestro Meyer Davis has, appropriately enough, a million dollar business policy. Leo Reisman, Eddie Duchin, Borrah Minneville and all the Lombardo brothers have bought life policies.

More Lettermania: He insured the Jules Bache fine art collection for eleven million dollars and that of Philip Lehman for six million. . . . Met A. C. Blumenthal through Jimmy Walker and signed him up for one million. . . . Sold three policies to George Jessel and an annuity to Norma Talmadge. . . . Dolores Del Rio is one of his best friends and all her policies are his.

Lon Chaney was a Letterman client and also Dave Butler, who directed the Chaney films. . . . Frank Capra, Tod Browning and Lewis Milestone are famous directors who are among his clients. . . . Mae Murray and Claire Windsor have all their annuities through him. . . . Jack Pearl and his wife are close friends.

James Chalmers, the Scottish missionary to New Guinea, was killed by cannibals at Goaribari island in 1901.

Chaliapin, the Russian bass singer, was a porter, shoemaker, hunter and street sweeper at various times in his youth.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—This can be very, very funny or very, very sad, depending entirely on how you look at it. Just to hear the bar details you would imagine it could happen only in Shanghai, or in a Capetown dive, or on the Barbary Coast, but it didn't.

It happened in one of New York's most elegant hotels—suddenly, savagely, humorously, without warning.

I myself know it was humorous because I have seen the picture. The columnist at first didn't know what to think, but later, through puffed lips, he too laughed. As for the cameraman, well, if he hadn't known it would be amusing he never would have bothered in the first place, and so I guess that clears up everything except the Japanese and the Lady.

Pursuing an around-the-town assignment, a New York scribe and his cameraman were sauntering through the corridors of a famous hotel where royalty and celebrities are usually found, when suddenly they heard a great scuffling and a woman's scream. Bounding through an open door, both were amazed to see a Japanese man and a woman fighting.

"Ah," cried our hero (the scribe), "romance." So he waded in to the lady's assistance, but to his chagrin she turned savagely upon him, screaming, "Mind yer own business," and attempted to scratch his eyes out. The Japanese, while uttering shrieks in an oriental dialect and bringing up his tricks of jiu jitsu, had the venturesome scribe in a bad way. Fighting desperately the scribe, tossed a despairing glance over his shoulder to see what was staying his photographer pal.

No, the photographer hadn't run away. He was, in fact, coolly taking pictures of the melee ("because I thought they would amuse you," he afterwards explained). Then, carefully placing his camera out of harm's way, he waded in, two fists flying, and so presently both the columnist and the cameraman made their escape.

He was right, that photographer, it seems. Viewing the prints next day through half-closed eyes, the columnist admitted that he thought they were very, very funny—almost, in fact, as funny as the cameraman knew they were.

That fleet of new cars with which the SKP industries, on upper Broadway, have equipped their sales force has wrung a lugubrious, if unofficial, wall from the Campbell funeral parlors.

I happened to be talking with one of the men when an attaché of the undertaking establishment came out on the sidewalk one day and, half in fun, half in earnest, pointed out that the new fleet of cars almost blocked the entrance to the parlors.

"Listen," said the SKP man, "do you remember when Valentino died? The show you people put on not only blocked this street but bottled up one entire section of the city. It took me three hours to thread my way from the ferry landing to the office."

"Ah," exclaimed the attaché, rubbing his hands reflectively, "that was a funeral, wasn't it? Boy, they don't have them like that now."

Before Campbell himself died, he earned a place along with Tex Rickard and Florenz Ziegfeld as one of New York's master showmen. He had a genius for the spectacular, and pictures of the funerals he gave celebrities had been printed all over the world.

HOMESICK MIDSHIPMAN RETURNS TO ANNAPOLIS

Annapolis, Oct. 9.—Midshipman Ralph J. Noll, of Belleville, Illinois, who disappeared from the naval academy September 28, was reported back to the institution.

Shortly after he left the academy, the authorities learned that Noll had returned to his home. Rear-Admiral David Foote Sellers, superintendent of the academy, advised his return.

The midshipman came back to the academy accompanied by his father. He told the authorities he wished to resign from the naval service.

facilities he has sharpened. "Such a philosophy of education is utterly inadequate. More and more in America today there is coming into existence a recognition of the need of a rounded program. We need men and women who are educated all over. So many young people are turned out into the world like unfinished houses; row upon row, one sided, out of line, over developed on one side underdeveloped on another.

Provide Sane Leadership "An education is designed to enable human society to provide itself with sane, capable and dependable leadership. Citizen-building is not a purpose but the fundamental purpose of public education.

"From the earliest stage of conscious life, we need a new appreciation of, and emphasis upon, loyalty to the decencies of life, the development of wholesome, constructive attitudes, the quickening of moral courage and the stimulating of worthwhile ideals.

"The greatest investment in America today is education. The right kind of education constitutes an insurance policy taken out by those who live today to provide security for those who must live tomorrow."

AVIATOR HURT AS PLANE CRASHES AT COLLEGE PARK

College Park, Md., Oct. 9 (AP).—Elmer Brown, 34, was injured Monday when a small monoplane he was flying crashed from 150 feet as he took off from the College Park airport.

The flier was taken to Casualty hospital, Washington. His condition was reported as "not serious," but physicians said they had not completed a diagnosis.

An investigation of the accident was begun. The airport on which he crashed is used by the United States department of commerce as well as civilian planes.

TIGERS FEAST ON CUB STEAKS

Detroit Fans Pay $5 Per Plate for Banquet to New World Champions.

Detroit, Oct. 9 (AP).—Those brand-new champions of the baseball world, the Tigers of Detroit, pulled their chairs up to the banquet board Tuesday night for a "Cub steak" victory feast, an event that has been 50 years in the making.

The baseball ghosts of two former Tiger managers, Hughie Jennings and Ty Cobb, and many another of the diamond's heroes of the past hovered over the banquet a little, enviously, probably cheering themselves hoarse like everyone else in this baseball-mad town.

Navin Just Ticked

The victory dinner was jammed by all those who had $5 for a plate and the strength to squeeze in, and who in Detroit tonight didn't have $5? This old fur-trading post, still nursing an awful headache and waving the Cubs' scalp after one of the wildest, most jubilant world series celebrations ever known, bet its shirt on the Tigers to take Chicago, and the shirt came back all done up in vest, coat, pants, tie and derby.

There was a governor and a mayor and a dozen other dignitaries there from official life with bouquets of nice words for the victors, but they played second fiddle to the newly crowned champions of baseball.

The $5 plate holders could see, outstanding in the throng, the smiling old gentleman with the bald head who thought he could never smile again—Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit baseball company.

For thirty-two years he held the purse strings of the Detroit Tigers, waiting and hoping for a world series winning. He had had five penants, three of them in a row in the days of Jennings and Cobb and two under the current reign of Mickey Cochrane.

Mike and Goose Honored

Now, if he never gets another, he probably wouldn't care greatly. He tried to beat the Cubs in 1907 and 1908 and missed. He tried to clean the Gas House gang from St. Louis a year ago and missed again. But this year his club clicked against the Cubs.

On one side of Navin was Manager Mike and on the other Leon (the Goose) Goslin, a pair of veterans of the baseball wars who ended up the sixth game of the world series with a pair of blows that left 48,000 wildly cheering fans gasping for breath.

Outside the packed banquet room collective Detroit still moved dizzily after the roaring world series night, still a little tired and very hoarse, still wondering why it threw all the telephone books out the windows and battled mounted policemen for a chance to push street cars off the track.

But the city took its headache philosophically Tuesday. After all, it only happens once in a lifetime or once in fifty years.

elected as recording secretary, for his twenty-fourth term, and the Rev. Edward W. Leech, pastor of the hostess church, York Fourth, was again renamed statistical secretary, for his nineteenth year.

The conference accepted the resignation of the Rev. Ralph E. Boyer, pastor of the Scott Street church, Baltimore, as a member of the conference, upon the recommendation of the conference relations committee. The Rev. Mr. Boyer, who is well known throughout this section for his evangelistic efforts, is a spiritual son of Fourth church. The pulpit of the Baltimore church is expected to be filled by the stationing committee at this conference.

For Elder's Orders

Ivan G. Naugle, Manchester, Maryland, graduate of Westminster theological seminary and a former resident of Gettysburg, and Fred W. Mund, Baltimore, Maryland, graduate of Yale Divinity school, were publicly examined for elder's orders.

The following were recommended for ministerial credentials: Lay licenses, Harry E. Neiman, Dover charge; Charles Miller, York Fifth; annual conference licenses, Curvin L. Thompson, York First; Paul Kunkle, West Fairview; Daniel L. Neiman, Waynesboro; Charles W. Hoke, New Cumberland, Trinity, and Elwood E. Needy, Boonesboro.

Doctor Ness in his annual report stated that the economic condition of most churches is improved and that the conference as a whole will show more marked increase in financial support, and that it is believed that the benevolent budget will exceed that of last year.

Dr. N. B. S. Thomas, pastor of the Gettysburg church, was made a member of the committee on elders' orders, and the Rev. Palmer M. Slenker, pastor of the Ortanna charge, was named on the committee on pastors' reports.

The reputed chair of St. Peter in St. Peter's at Rome is said to be Byzantine work of the sixth century by some experts.

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth cannot help feeling uneasy, partly because of her father's sudden and mysterious decision to visit his Astoria plant, partly because the attitude of her fiancé, Rob Crocker, and especially because she has found her father deeply interested in what Teela Sorki, Anne's old nurse, is telling him. Now Anne is going with Rob to dinner with relatives whom she cordially detests.

Chapter Five HAPPY FAMILY

The drive was short. The car soon moved up the shrub-lined driveway to the house where Anne had spent the early years of her life and upon which she now looked with affectionate interest.

Sharlee was at the door to meet them, bracelets, necklaces, dangling earrings and curls fluttering and jangling with her animation.

"Where's your mother?" demanded Mrs. Charlotte Farnsworth, appearing from an inner room, her perpetual look of discontent more deeply etched on her almost masculine features than ever.

Anne explained that she had been detained by her father, who was late in getting in from the cannery.

"Lee got in early enough," Mrs. Farnsworth countered. "I don't see what Luke thought he had to do. He should know by this time that Lee's capable of managing affairs down here, Portland too for that matter, and without interference."

Anne was saved the embarrassment of a reply by the sudden switching of the conversation. "Beautiful cape," observed Mrs. Farnsworth, grudgingly, "must have cost a fortune. Milna—" a slim, pale blond girl came in from another room, smiled shyly at Anne, and took the cape.

"Anne, you do wear the plainest clothes," she went on as the smartly designed coral frock was revealed, "and with all the money you have to spend! But then, plain girl, plain clothes. Let's go in the living room. I left a platter of hors d'oeuvres, on the table beside Mable, and at the rate she was sampling there won't be one left. That woman could eat her way through a cracker factory."

Anne smothered a smile, and followed her aunt in to where Mabel Farley, a feminine replica of Lee Farnsworth and faintly resembling her own father, was nibbling on the last toast oblong.

"Lee just insisted I take it," she apologized under the condemning gaze of her sister-in-law. "Hello, Anne, pretty dress. My but you're thin. Ought to eat more. But then, girls in love, eh, Tom? Remember how thin I was before we were married?"

Anne lips twitching, caught the sardonic look Tom Farley cast his wife, before turning his attention to her. "I suppose we'll have to wait dinner until the millionaire Farnsworths arrive," he observed bitingly, then turned to Lee, who had answered the telephone and was now looking at them with a bewildered expression which sat incongruously on his fat, pleasant face.

"Luke called," he explained, "says he's leaving for Portland right after dinner, want's to use my car."

Anne listened to her uncle in fresh consternation. What had happened to cause Luke to rush back to Portland in such a storm?

The others wondered the same thing and piled Anne with questions which they soon realized she could not answer.

Nor did they gain more satisfaction after the arrival of the Luke Farnsworths.

"Going on business," was Luke's terse reply to the storm of queries, and with that, they had to be satisfied.

The dinner wasn't a pleasant affair. Luke, obviously upset over something, paid scant attention to the remarks addressed to him, and Lucinda, trying to defend or mediate, seemed as distrust as he. Anne, observing them, was uncomfortable, and when she caught an occasional glimpse of Rob, seated on the same side of the table but below her, she found he was studying her parents with a grim, suspicious air.

Only Sharlee seemed at ease. Sharlee and Milna. Sharlee's high laugh echoed above the monotone of talk and occasionally her rapid staccato chatter caused the others to pause and listen.

Anne won her aunt's displeasure by conversing with Milna as she served, and was relieved when the dinner was over and they were allowed to repair to the living room.

"Anne," Luke Farnsworth beckoned, "and boys, Lee, Tom and you Rob. I want to talk to you all in the library."

He waited until the men were seated and Anne perched on his chair, then he began. She listened with growing wonder at his obvious displeasure.

"Anne," he said, "I'm sorry. I haven't taught you something about the business which provides you with your livelihood. You'd understand better what I'm about to speak of to the boys. However—" he turned to them, "I'm not pleased with the way things are being handled down here.

"You all know my views on fish traps. You know I'll consent to buy from them only after the supply offered by the fishermen has been exhausted. And yet I come down here and learn that you are working with the trap owners, giving them preference over the fishermen.

"Now, Anne, this is the way things are handled among the cannery men. Each cannery either owns its own boats which are used by specific groups of fishermen, or they cater to groups who serve them and no one else. These fishermen depend upon the canneries to buy their haul, as much as the canneries depend upon the fishermen.

"The Farnsworth Fisheries have always dealt with the Finns. I lived among those people as a boy and learned to appreciate their integrity and dependability.

"I've prided myself upon matching these qualities.

"Now, Anne, there are certain seasons when the run of fish is greater than others. There are also closed seasons, a time allowed the fish to pass unmolested up the river to their spawning grounds. During this closed season, the fishermen mend their nets and their boats, and our canneries put the equipment into perfect running order.

"We are nearing a closed season. During the past few years there has been a shortage of fish and everything points to a record spring run. The spring run, you see, is the greatest of the year.

"Sometimes, during a record run, the canneries are over-taxed." (Copyright, 1935, by Jeanne Bowman)

Anne witnesses, tomorrow, a quarrel between two men she loves.

BELL'S DOG IS DOUBLE WINNER

Eagle Wing, Champion Pointer, Cops Two Prizes in Harrisburg Trials.

Eagle Wing, champion liver and white pointer, owned by Robert P. Bell, of Gettysburg, that captured the Amateur All-Age stakes of the Capital City Field Trials' association at the Indiantown Gap military reservation, Monday, showed its consistency, Tuesday, by taking top honors in the Shooting Dog stakes, final event of the two-day program.

Eagle Wing is believed to have set a precedent in field trials by its double victory. At any rate the dog's fine showing topped all efforts of the day in a field of classy dogs and earned another medal for its owner.

Harrisburg Entry Second
Many finds were made by all dogs in the Shooting Dogs Stakes with Eagle Wing uncovering six birds to lead the list. This was one of many reasons Judges George James of Carlisle and C. V. Quigley of Harrisburg picked Bell's entry for first place.

The judging Tuesday was based on a dog's work according to local shooting conditions and not according to regular field trial standards.

Second place in the Shooting Dog Stakes went to Betty, a liver and white pointer owned by C. N. Rose, of Binghamton, N. Y., and a late entry. E. Monroe Reber's Tips Comanche Proctor, carried off third honors. Reber's dog is an orange and white pointer and was trained near Reading, Reber's home.

In the morning event, the Novice All-Age Stakes, Long Island Boy was the title-winner. The champion is a liver and white pointer owned by E. G. Minster, of Bristol. Ginger Blimpey upheld Harrisburg's honors by placing second in the morning event. A black and white setter owned by John Parks, it was the only Harrisburg dog to gain a place in the two-day program.

GROWN UP

Once upon a time the fairies used to play
Down among the daisies every lovely summer's day,
But Miss Janet's at my shoulder now,
So very tall she's grown,
And the daisies in the garden now
Are dwelling there alone.

Once upon a time we'd go walking hand in hand
Where the stalwart tiger lilies marked the gate to fairyland,
But Miss Janet's step is stately and there's wisdom 'neath her brow,
And the stalwart tiger lilies are but garden blossoms now.

Once upon a time out adventuring we'd go,
There were palaces with turrets in the shrubbery below,
But Miss Janet now is wearing gowns that fall below her knees,
And there's nothing in the garden but blossoms and the bees.

BOY, MAN HELD FOR SLAYING

Youth Confesses, Police Assert, and Implicates Farm Worker, Aged 26.

Mount Holly, Oct. 9.—A 16-year-old boy Tuesday confessed he killed Herman Eiler, 62-year-old farmer of Florence, N. J., during a robbery attempt, state police announced.

The boy, Jacob Cimingo, of Burlington township, implicated George Hildebrand, 26, a former employee on Eiler's chicken farm.

Both were formally charged with the murder at a hearing before Justice of the Peace William Grady at Vincentown this afternoon, and held without bail.

Eiler, who lived alone in his farm house on Cedar lane, three miles north of here, was found sprawled across his front doorway last night, bullets in his chest and head.

Prosecutor to Push Case
Cimingo and Hildebrand were put in cells in Burlington county jail here, and Prosecutor Howard Eastwick said the grand jury may be called in a day or two and asked to indict them.

Hildebrand was arrested late last night, a few hours after Eiler's body was found by a neighbor who came to buy eggs. Police, wanting him for questioning because he had worked for Eiler a year ago, found him at the farm of Eugene Scattergood, in Mansfield township, where Cigarettes give a lot of pleasure to a lot of people.

More cigarettes are smoked today because more people know about them—they are better advertised.

But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

Chesterfield is made of mild, ripe tobaccos.

Everything that science knows about is used in making it a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

We believe you will enjoy them.

And when the Lord saw that Leah was hated, he opened her womb:
but Rachel was barren.

And Leah conceived, and bare a son; and she called his name Reuben: for she said, Surely the Lord hath looked upon my affliction; now therefore my husband will love me.

And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, Because the Lord hath therefore given me this son also; and she called his name Simeon.

And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, Now will this time will my husband be joined unto me, because I have borne him three sons: therefore was his name called Levi.

And she conceived again, and bare a son; and she said, Now will I praise the Lord: therefore she called his name Judah; and left bearing.

Genesis 29:31-35.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

MISUNDERSTANDING

SO MUCH of the unhappiness of this world comes about through trying to put blame upon someone else. Most of the blame of the world originates from misunderstanding.

The world wouldn't be so darkened with the clouds of another unspeakable world war if nations understood one another and one another's aims and purposes.

We find fault and criticize because we do not understand. We do not even understand ourselves at times. We enter a foreign area when we choose to judge another's acts and life. If we only knew—but we rarely do. We go ahead and make snap judgment and form conclusions that often result in nothing but bitterness, hurt hearts, lost friends and unhappiness to ourselves.

Tolerance—what a wonderful word! It has been intolerance that has brought the major wrecks to this world and strewn a path of broken hearts, blood and tears throughout all time.

How clear and clean have been the notes of those who have striven for peace and understanding throughout the troublesome times of history down to our present day. The fact that they have been out-voted and out-voted, time and again, is no evidence that they have lost that message which they so sincerely delivered. Prophets are usually unpopular.

How we wish we could recall our words of anger and misjudgment.
But they cannot be recalled. Like bullets shot, they leave a mark somewhere—often an eating wound.

Above all seek understanding. The very seeking is bound to part many a cloud upon a dark sky and horizon. Understanding doesn't necessitate words or explanations—just a mind big enough to overlook and a heart mellow enough to be universal!

It has been said that "sometime we will understand." Let us try and understand a little here and now—and not put it off!

Trim Marian Martin Smock Is Handy
Cover-All And Clothes-Saver

PATTERN 9620

Housewife, nurse, artist and business girl will find this trim smock a protective cover-all and clothes-saver, and brimming with practical, easy-to-make features. To vary the snug, collarless line, simply unbut-ton and fold back the smart revers, and here's your chance to introduce color contrast! Raglan sleeves are so comfortable, and so easy to set in; deep cuffs are tight-fitting and never in the way. Let's say gay flowered percale for the smock that stays at home; a more conservative monotone broadcloth for business.
Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9620 may be ordered only in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44.
Size 34 requires 3½ yards 36-inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Be sure to send for your new Marian Martin pattern book! It picturizes dozens of easy, thrifty ways to make up lovely new fabrics—in smart fall and winter clothes for your whole family! Shows designs for adorable, easy-to-make Christmas gifts, too. Tells how to make yourself more charming by the right choice of clothes and accessories.

ITALY PLANS TO DEFEND COAST

Il Duce Reviews Troops and Sets Machinery in Motion To Defend Nation.

Rome, Oct. 9 (AP).—Premier Mussolini went determinedly ahead with war measures at home Tuesday while the league of nations prepared sanctions against him.

Five vessels sailed from Naples bearing 2,000 more soldiers and cargoes of munitions for the giant war machine in East Africa.

Il Duce, after a review of the 10-000 officers of the nation's 1,200,000 young fascists, who soon will be in the army, told them they must "temper your souls like steel."

During the review there were loosed beside Mussolini great flocks of doves, symbolic of peace.

cers were restraining the eagerness of troops to advance farther into Ethiopia. Artillery fire, however, was used to drive Ethiopians from a fastness in mountains behind Adwa.

Preparations were made at home to defend coastal cities in event hostilities result from league actions.
Widespread measures already have been adopted by Il Duce in anticipation of economic and financial sanctions.

Italy, experts said, is dependent upon no nation for bread, lighting, transportation, water and fuel.

Air drills were ordered in such cities as Naples, Genoa and Bari.
Coast artillery and anti-aircraft units opened an intensive period of training.

Mussolini made an effort to show the "good side" of his Ethiopian war to his people and the world to offset Geneva's criticism.

"The sword and civilization march together," said official and semi-official descriptions of the four days of fighting in Africa and the two days' of preparation for the next offensive.

Casualties were mentioned for the first time in Tuesday's communique.
They were asserted to be very small to Italians, but heavy among Ethiopians.

That, and a statement hundreds of prisoners have been taken, was the only reference to the horrors of war.

Italy is seeking to win over the enemy population with propaganda leaflets from the air before attacking. After an advance, said the official Italian correspondents with the army, there is an immediate effort to restore the smoothness of civil life and make it more pleasant

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest.
It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

East Berlin at Arendtsville.

The Arendtsville vocational school won its second straight victory in the Adams county interscholastic soccer league Tuesday afternoon by defeating the East Berlin booters at Arendtsville, 6-0.

Coach Edgar Reigle's team played a strong defensive game while R. Kane and Taylor each scored two goals.

Arendtsville will again play East Berlin at Arendtsville Friday after-noon. The game will be staged at Arendtsville due to the lack of play-ing grounds at East Berlin.

Mae West Calm Despite Probe of Extortion Plot

Los Angeles, Oct. 9 (AP).—G-men made a vain effort Tuesday to inquire into the latest real-life drama starring Mae West, non-chalant despite the assiduously harrowing experiences of receiving dire threats from extortionists and helping capture a suspect.

The wise-cracking blonde actress wasn't "in" when Joseph E. P.
Dunn, chief of the federal bureau of investigation here, called at her fluttering apartment at 2 a. m. Tuesday. She left word she'd see him later.

She didn't mean she would call on Dunn. He was advised to come up and see her—at the studio. She

WOMAN ADMITS POISON DEATH

Wanted To Get Rid of Wife of Man Who Wronged Her Daughter, Say Officers.

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP).—A housewife who smiled with a child's unconcern confessed Tuesday, officials said, that she helped the reputed seducer of her schoolgirl daughter to poison his 220-pound wife.

She also was represented as confessing that she did away with her own brother by the same poison—a crime for which she was tried and acquitted 12 years ago and so cannot be tried again.

An illicit relationship, Everett R. Applegate, 28, past commander of his American Legion post, allegedly carried on with Ruth Creighton, 15, apparently inspired the conspiracy in an ordinary frame dwelling at Baldwin, Long Island, like hundreds of other houses in that suburb.

Confession Reported Signed
There lived Mr. and Mrs. Applegate and their daughter, Agnes, 13, and Mr. and Mrs. John Creighton with their two children, Ruth and

AMUSEMENTS

Out of the pages of American history, Fox film plucked an exciting and colorful phase of Mississippi river life to furnish the climax for Will Rogers' new picture, "Steamboat Round the Bend," at the Majestic theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Once a year the fastest packets of the Mississippi and Ohio river would line up amid a great celebration and stage a steamboat race from Natchez to New Orleans, the gala event of the year. Crowds would line the shores, river crafts would drift up and down stream cheering their favorites and all work was forgotten in the excitement and anticipation of a race.

In the film, as in the old days, Rogers and Irvin S. Cobb, rival steamboat pilots, employ every possible means of winning the race. Old furniture, wax statues, fire-water medicine and most anything that would burn are used as fuel to turn the tide of victory.

The bitter rivalry of Rogers and Cobb, masters of "The Claremore Queen" and "The Pride of Paducah," reaches a climax when their packets fight it out for the supremacy of the Mississippi.

The race, however, is merely a high-light to the climax, since Rogers' sole purpose in entering the race is to save the life of a boy, who through a misunderstanding is held by the law for murder.

In support of Rogers and Cobb, the cast of players includes Anne Shirley, Eugene Pallette, John McGuire, Burton Churchill and Stepin Fetchit.

John, 12. And there last September 26 an egg-nog was mixed.

But before that, according to the confession Martin W. Littleton, retiring district attorney, announced Mrs. Creighton had signed, Mrs. Applegate found out about her husband and Ruth Creighton.

Mrs. Creighton also found out about it. And Applegate found out, the confession recounted, that Mrs. Creighton really had poisoned her brother, Charles R. Avery, when they lived in Newark, New Jersey. She said she did it because he was "a cripple and a burden to the family."

Acquitted In Another Case
After being acquitted of his slaying, incidentally, Mrs. Creighton, who is 36, was tried for the poison death of her mother-in-law and again was acquitted. Her confession denied this poisoning.

So Applegate, according to Mr. Littleton's version of the confession wanted his wife out of the way because she knew about Ruth and also because she was so fat — she had weighed 260 pounds, but had been taking tablets to reduce.

Mrs. Creighton, the confession said, also desired her death because Applegate then would be free to marry her daughter if she could bring it about. In addition, the document continued, Applegate threatened to expose her in connection with her brother's death.

Names Other's Husband
Then came the egg-nog. Mrs. Creighton mixed it, she said, and Applegate dropped some powder into it and took it to his wife. That night Mrs. Creighton herself, Mr. Littleton said, placed a "large dose" of the poison in a glass of milk for Mrs. Applegate.

The woman died the next day. Her death at first was ascribed to a heart attack. It was only when a detective living in the neighborhood heard "rumors" their source and nature not specified, that an investigation was started.

ORRTANNA
Orrtanna.—Mrs. Charles Biesecker entertained the following members of the Ladies' Aid society of the local Methodist Episcopal church of which she is a member: Mrs. R. L. Biggs, Mrs. Blair Biesecker, Mrs. Clem Wolford, Mrs. Wilmer Wetzel, Mrs. Louis Shulley, Mrs. Harmon Spence, Mrs. Walter Sloat, Mrs. Clinton Hauger, Mrs. John Cease, Mrs. George Naugle, Mrs. Steele Cox, Miss Amanda Lochbaum and Miss Annie Cease. Guests included Larita Shulley, Mildred, Betty and James Biesecker, Richard Naugle, Irene Wetzel and Berkeley Naugle. After a business meeting refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Max Cease, November 7.

The Rev. Charles M. Coffelt, of Fairfield, visited his parishioners here Thursday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rawhouser and son, Paul, of York, visited relatives here and on Orrtanna R. I.

A party was given last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Harmon in observance of the third birthday anniversary of their twin sons, Melvin and Marion. Those present were Melvin, Marian, Samuel, Ruth Emma, Dorothy and Frank Harmon, Kenneth Biesecker, Paul Stultz, Jr., Thelma and Nancy Allen, Betty, Jo and Winifred Naugle, Richard Sharrah, Mrs. Paul Stultz, Mrs. Fred Naugle, Mrs. Clifford Biesecker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sharrah, Mrs. C.
